Dear Ms. McDaniel:

On June 6, 2000, you were notified that a review of the above-referenced report(s) raised questions as to specific contributions and/or expenditures, and the reporting of certain information required by the Federal Election Campaign Act.

Your June 21, 2000 response is incomplete because you have not provided all the requested information. For this response to be considered adequate, the following information is still required.

-In your response you indicate that you have "tried every possible means" to obtain the occupation and name of employer of individuals for which this information is still lacking. Specifically, you state that you have sent "two letters to each individual missing employer/occupation information, as well as a phone call to those in which a phone number was obtained." You have included copies of follow-up letters as well as a list of individuals who received such a request. In order to establish "best efforts" as described in our initial letter, please clarify whether:

- your initial solicitations include a clear and conspicuous request for the contributor information and inform the contributor of the requirements of federal law for the reporting of such information; and
- your follow-up, stand alone efforts to obtain this information occur no later than 30 days after receipt of the contribution.

In addition, if you receive contributor information after the contribution(s) has been reported, you shall either a) file with your next regularly scheduled
